National Bushfire Recovery Agency

The Australian Government will establish a dedicated agency with an initial $2 billion for a recovery fund to coordinate a national response and help rebuild communities.

Priorities will include primary producer grants for restocking, replanting and fencing, additional support for small businesses, grants to bushfire affected Local Government Areas, a mental health package for first responders and communities, support to attract tourists back to the regions, infrastructure projects to support economic, community and industry recovery and resilience, and measures to support the environment and native wildlife.

The funding is in addition to funding available under existing natural disaster support mechanisms.

Disaster Recovery payment

The Department of Human Services is providing a one-off Disaster Recovery Payment of $1,000 for each eligible adult and $400 for each dependent child.

Payments are for people who have been injured, who have lost an immediate family member or whose home has been significantly damaged or destroyed.

People who have lost income as a direct result of the fires may be eligible for Disaster Recovery Allowance. The allowance is an income support payment for up to 13 weeks for people who have lost income as a direct result of the fires. The payment is the equivalent of the maximum rate of Newstart or Youth Allowance.

To claim a payment call 180 22 66, between 8am - 8pm Monday to Friday and 8am - 5pm on Saturday and Sunday. These times are subject to change. The payment is generally in people's bank accounts within 24-48 hours. For information about payments and eligibility, criteria visit the Human Services website.

Other financial support

A range of additional relief and recovery assistance is available under the Disaster Recovery Funding Arrangements (DRFA) to bushfire affected communities, individuals, primary producers and small businesses. Depending on where you live, this assistance may include financial support for emergency assistance and housing damage, and recovery grants and concessional interest rate loans for small businesses and primary producers. DRFA assistance is administered by State Governments. Further information on the specific assistance available in each state is on the DisasterAssist website.

Australian Defence Force support

The bushfire crisis is the ADF's primary focus. Several thousand troops have been deployed, including land, sea and air assets.

To manage the response, a Two-Star Emergency ADF National Support Coordinator has been appointed to work with state and territory authorities. More details can be found at on the Defence website.

NDIS

Any NDIS participant who needs assistance with their disability support due to the bushfire situation is encouraged to contact 1800 800 110 to discuss their circumstances.

Emergency accommodation

Defence has opened bases across bushfire affected regions for the use of people needing short-term evacuation assistance.

You can seek shelter at any Defence base in an emergency. A list of bases in each state can be found on the Defence website:

<https://news.defence.gov.au/national/defence-bases-open-to-evacuees>

Payments for volunteer firefighters

Volunteer firefighters may be eligible to access financial support for loss of income, where they have been called out for extended periods of service.

Payments of up to $300 per day (up to a total of $6,000 per person) are available for volunteer firefighters.

These payments are tax-free, will not be means-tested, and are in addition to any other forms of disaster support an individual may be eligible for.

State Governments are offering assistance for volunteer firefighters and can be contacted for further advice and assistance.

Dead or injured stock

Department of Agriculture officers are working with states and territories to provide support, which may include disposal of deceased livestock, and advice on pest and disease threats and mitigation with the movement of fodder.

Counselling and mental health support

The Australian Government is providing $76 million for mental health support for individuals, families and communities, including emergency services personnel impacted by the bushfires. This response includes up to 10 free counselling sessions, expanded telehealth mental health services, increased funding to headspaces in affected communities, bushfire trauma response coordinators to link individuals and communities with the right mental health supports, and a package of measures to support the needs of emergency services personnel (including volunteers) and their families – both now and into the future.

Needing support in the wake of disaster is normal and not a sign of weakness. Contact your GP to find support in your local area that meets your needs. If you need to speak to someone immediately, you can contact Lifeline Australia for telephone or online support services (13 11 14 | www.lifeline.org.au). Children can be directed to the Kids Helpline (1800 55 1800 | www.kidshelpline.com.au).

More information on the mental health services that the Australian, State and Territory Governments are making available to support bushfire recovery is available at:

Residential aged care

Aged care residents who are moved temporarily to a different residential home due bushfires will continue to receive all their services in the new location.

You can call the My Aged Care contact centre on 1800 200 422

Medicare

Even if you don't have your Medicare card or number, you can still see a doctor, visit your local hospital or buy prescriptions. Doctors and Hospital staff can call Medicare to obtain your relevant Medicare, Health Care Card and DVA card details. Pharmacists can call the PBS inquiry line on 132 290 (option 1) for assistance with Medicare or concessional details.

Lost or destroyed passports

Australians whose passports have been lost or damaged in a natural disaster may be eligible for a free replacement.

Affected passport holders should call the Australian Passport Information Service on 131 232.
